The Barber: Joe Magnetico, Journeymen Players Club

edestrians passing by the large front window of Olde Tyme Barbers on East 41st Street in Midtown Manhattan might notice the LeRoy Neiman golf print hanging on the wall by the first chair, along with the golf trophies in front of the mirror. These are conversation starters for Joe Magnetico, who has been cutting hair in this location for more than 20 years and says a good portion of his clients are golfers just like him.

Magnetico is a third-generation barber. The business was previously owned by his father, and a steady stream of regulars keeps Magnetico and the other five barbers in the shop busy from early morning to late afternoon. But whenever he gets a chance, he talks golf. "Having a barber shop here in Manhattan has given me the luxury of being invited to a lot of great clubs...I've played Winged Foot and Westchester. I used to be a competitive softball player, but golf is a game that I can play for life."

t takes focus, dedication, and more than a little good fortune to win a club championship. It also takes time, as each of the 711 MGA club champions in 2007 can surely attest. Many of these champions, who are listed in alphabetical order by club on the following pages, have careers that take them away from the fairways and greens more than they'd like. But as you'll see with the six that we've chosen to profile, the jobs that they call their own add another layer to their lives that they wouldn't trade for all the club championship hardware in a trophy case.

Magnetico was a co-founder of a new MGA member club without real estate, Journeymen Players. "We're up to 37 members - all sorts of people, including doctors, lawyers, and plain working guys like myself. We try to have an event every month, and there's great camaraderie." Sounds like the type of atmosphere found in a traditional barber shop.

The Fitness Entrepreneur:	Joe	Saladino,	Huntington	Country	Club

few years ago, Joe Saladino began to take a more dedicated approach to fitness in order to improve his golf game. He got results, including his second club championship this year at Huntington. Together with his brother, Don, they founded a private club called Drive 495 in Manhattan in the spring of 2006 -"he was the trainer, and I was the golfer," says Saladino, 26. Their goal is to help other golfers reach their potential through increased fitness.

It's clear the market is there, as the club has been a success and was recently certified by the Titleist Performance Institute (TPI), one of the leading golf research and fitness facilities in the game. "There are so many golfers in the city, but there wasn't really a place where they could practice and work with a team of professionals to get overall balance in their games," explains Saladino, who now helps his brother with some of the training in addition to handling the office work. The club has a full floor of fitness equipment along with five golf simulators and two practice greens.

Saladino's business has definitely helped his game. "I'm a better player now," he says, "and it's nice that I've won the Long Island Golf Association Player of the Year award the two years that the club has been open." It's safe to say that Saladino isn't just an owner, he's also a client.

The Coach: Maryanne Lynch, The Apawamis Club or Maryanne Lynch, the decision to leave her job at PepsiCo in White Plains, N.Y., in 1991 was a fortuitous

one. It led her to golf, which in turn led to an entirely different level of success, both on and off the course. Lynch bought her first set of clubs after exiting the corporate world, boys I knew were the ones who dated my two daughters." and this year's club championship was her seventh at Apawamis.

It's a winning percentage that the high-school age golfers at Rye Country Day School (below), where Lynch is in her third season coaching the boys' golf team, are striving to match. In Lynch's first two seasons as coach, they were the champions of the Fairchester Athletic Association and also won the New York State championship for private schools. It's something that Lynch could not have envisioned when she took the job three years ago. "I knew a lot about golf but didn't know a lot about high school boys, she says. "The only The boys and Lynch have formed a strong bond - "I don't teach them golf, but I teach them how to compete," she says. A few of them even came out to Apawamis to root her on in the finals of the club championship, where she was three down with five holes to play but rallied for a 1-up victory. It just goes to show that the coaching on this team goes in both directions.

The Textile Executive: Brian Kramer, Trump National-Bedminster

rian Kramer played on the golf team at Division II Florida Southern College, the same school attended by Lee Janzen, Rocco Mediate and Marco Dawson. But Kramer never considered trying for a spot on Tour. Instead, Kramer's workplace is a textile company in Manhattan's Garment District, meaning the only cuts Kramer has to worry about making are the ones that ensure his fabrics are the correct measurements for his clients.

Kramer is president of Guide Fabrics, a company started by his grandfather in 1961. After graduating from Florida Southern with a degree in finance, he learned the ins and outs of supplying high-quality fabrics to the thousands of clothing companies clustered in this bustling neighborhood. "The business was so different then," remembers Kramer. "Now, most of the manufacturing is in China, but we've been able to adapt and carve out a place for ourselves in the U.S. market," he says as he stands among rows of highquality fabrics stretching to the ceiling.

At Trump National-Bedminster, where Kramer joined in 2004, he is already a three-time club champion, winning in '04 and '05 before this year. Kramer carries an 0.2 Handicap Index and qualified to play in the 2007 U.S. Mid-Amateur at Bandon Dunes, though there's still another hill left to climb: "I've never played against Donald Trump in a club championship match," he says. There's always next year.

The Kennel Owner: Joyce Hurley, Osiris Country Club

n a sprawling hilltop estate just off the New York Thruway near Woodbury Commons sits CINAR Kennels, a successful business that trains English cocker spaniels for pheasant and quail hunting. "A lot of our business is local, but many of the dogs we raise also get sold to people out west, in Idaho and Montana." The kennel is co-run by Joyce Hurley and her husband, Jack, and the Hurleys' love of dogs is equaled only by their love of golf.

This summer, Joyce Hurley won the club championship at Osiris Country Club, where the Hurleys have been members for 15 years. It was Joyce's 29th career club championship, dating back to her previous club affiliations at Otterkill, Stony Ford and Central Valley. "I took up golf when I was 10," she says. "Everyone in my family played, so it was either take up golf or get left behind!" While she won her championship match on the 14th hole, the semifinal went to four playoff holes before Hurley was able to emerge with a victory.

Before taking over the kennels, Joyce worked for 15 years at Good Samaritan Hospital in Suffern, N.Y., where she eventually rose to the position of Vice President of Operations. But when the opportunity arose to take over the well-established kennel that had been operating in the area since 1939, the Hurleys jumped at the chance. And the residents of the kennel seem to be jumping for joy.

The Sheriff: Mike Birmingham, Bethpage Golf Club

n Mike Birmingham's "office," there are not many chances this year. He took up golf at age 11 and become an avid to practice putting on a carpet or talk golf around the water cooler. That's because Birmingham is a sergeant in the NYC Sheriff's Department, and his days are normally spent on patrol. "We handle traffic control, and then we spend a couple days a week in various neighborhoods around the city cracking down on counterfeit merchandise sold on the streets," says Birmingham of his typical week. Though Birmingham says he appreciates that his job allows him to help people, golf is certainly a pleasant diversion. He hones his game on the fairways at Bethpage State

Park, where he won the Bethpage Golf Club championship player in his 30's. Lucky for him, he found a home at one of the most famous public courses in the country. "If it wasn't for Bethpage, I don't think I'd be playing golf. It's a great facility, and I've met a lot of people playing there."

Birmingham's championship match on the Black Course went to extra holes, and he won it on the difficult par-three 17th hole, which during the 2002 U.S. Open was the scene of several loud ovations and plenty of drama. It's appropriate, then, that the Bethpage champion is this 16year veteran of law enforcement, for whom a little drama is all in a day's work.

Reynolds Plantation: "Best of the Best" Golf Community Hosts PGA of America Championships

It has been nearly a century since Mercer Reynolds Sr. built a lodge for his family on a quiet spot east of Atlanta, halfway to Augusta. The family named the lodge "Linger Longer" and it became a beloved place for enjoying the area's natural beauty to relax and pursue outdoor activities like hunting and fishing.

Today, the Linger Longer lifestyle is on display every day at Reynolds Plantation – a world class community and golf destination along 80 miles of lakefront land on Lake Oconee. With 99 holes of golf, advanced golf instruction and clubfitting centers, luxurious accommodations and fine dining, Reynolds Plantation is becoming well-known as both a place for average golfers to relax and for PGA Professionals to compete at the highest level.

The Oconee Course recently hosted the 23rd PGA Cup, a biennial match between PGA Professionals from

The PGA of America and their peers from Great Britain & Ireland. The three-day match play competition, which mirrors the Ryder Cup format for 12-man team play, saw the U.S. side earn a stirring victory over the GB&I side. According to players like Hudson National Golf Club's Ron Philo Jr., all the participants enjoyed their time at Reynolds Plantation.

"It was a privilege to be a member of this year's U.S. PGA Cup team," says Philo, a PGA teaching professional at Hudson National and top Met Section player. "And Reynolds Plantation was great - it has a real sense of history and tradition, and gives its guests the best the South has to offer. The staff did an outstanding job as our hosts during the PGA Cup."

Top PGA Professional players will have a chance to experience the thrill of competing at Reynolds Plantation again soon. The resort will host the PGA Professional National Championship in June 2008. The 370-player field will compete on the Great Waters and Reynolds Landing courses, and the top 20 finishers will qualify to play in the 2008 PGA Championship at Oakland Hills Country Club.

The Community has earned accolades from the likes of the Robb Report, which named Reynolds Plantation the "Best of the Best Golf Community" based on its outstanding golf courses and unrivaled level of service and amenities. Those amenities include the posh Ritz-Carlton Lodge, Reynolds Plantation, a AAA 5-Diamond hotel that has been rated by Travel & Leisure magazine as one of the top 10 places to stay in the U.S. The 251-room lakefront resort includes a 26,000 square foot spa and the highest level of hospitality. Despite all the accolades, Reynolds Plantation continues to add impressive new items to its portfolio of offerings. The latest is the new TaylorMade Kingdom at Reynolds Plantation. The high-tech clubfitting and time there.

"I would tell golfers in the Met area that Reynolds Plantation is a great place to extend the season," Philo says. "Winter is a great time to enjoy the great golf and hospitality that is Reynolds Planation. There's ample variety and challenge in all the golf courses, and Georgia has its best weather of the year when we're getting the worst of winter at home."
